CHAIRS REPORT 2016

The 2015 – 2016 Committee of Management is comprised of 7 elected members and 3 appointed members. The Committee met on ten occasions throughout the last twelve months and has successfully implemented and refined the Business and Strategic Plan first established by the previous board in early 2015.

The plan focuses on three strategic objectives:

1. Represent: Strengthen Music Victoria's position as a legitimate and respected peak body representing the Victorian contemporary music industry to ensure a strong voice on local, state and national issues.

Music Victoria is a strong voice and getting stronger. Over the last twelve months, Music Victoria has increased by its membership by 30%. Our members are comprised of:

900 individuals

150 bands

100 corporate partners

30 venues

Music Victoria has continued to expand its online community and now has a reach of over 30000 people.

2. Support: Deliver targeted industry development activities and services to support a strong and healthy contemporary music industry.

2016 saw the continued roll out of the Andrews Government $22m Music Works package. Music Victoria was chosen to manage the Good Music Neighbours grant program which was developed to help live music venues manage noise issues and the Live Music Professionals program which will help upskill live music workers across the state.

Music Victoria hosted over 35 panels and masterclasses and has continued to develop its "best practise guides" for industry professionals.

Music Victoria has also continued to develop strong working relationships with the State Government and local councils.

3. Sustainable Organisation: Build a more sustainable organisation with appropriate governance and funding and organisational development strategies to facilitate the achievement of strategic objectives 1 and 2.

A major achievement for the organisation this year was to sign off on a three-year funding arrangement with Creative Victoria. The three-year deal provides operational security to the organisation in the short term and will enable Music Victoria to focus on providing better outcomes for members. We are grateful to the Andrews Government for its ongoing support of Music Victoria and contemporary music in general.

Our other major sources of funding are via the Australia Council and APRA and we thank both organisations for their ongoing support.

Thanks to our supporters and members, Music Victoria is in a solid financial position at the end of 2016.

President 2015 – 2016

ANNUAL MUSIC VICTORIA CEO REPORT 2016

Introduction

2016 was an exciting year of significant consolidation and growth for Music Victoria and the Victorian music community.

Many of the plans that Music Victoria, its staff and Committees of Management have been working on for years came to fruition. Music Victoria continued to grow its footprint across the state, and reputation globally. Membership increased 30 per cent to 1137, and all social media channels are up between 33 and 326 per cent.

It secured three year core funding from the state government via Creative Victoria, three year funding from the Australia Council for the Arts, and three year sponsorship from key stakeholders and partners for The Age Music Victoria Awards for the next two events to 2018.

Music Victoria added three new staff to its team - Shaun Adams managing the Good Music Neighbours live music venue sound management grant project; Sarah Deborre more recently being engaged as project co-coordinator of the Live Music Professionals program (both roles part of the state government's Music Works initiative), and Alyse Newman being contracted to support Sarah in her role, as well as Music Victoria generally in its PR, social media and marketing.

Membership discounts, attendances at events and workshops and partnerships all grew in 2016. Music Victoria is now recognised by and has the financial support of key local government/councils, with City of Melbourne, City of Ballarat, and City of Yarra coming on board as official partners. This is testament to the work done by Music Victoria in engaging with, supporting and advising local government in relation to contemporary music.

Boards and Committees

Our three full time staff sit on a dozen boards and committees to ensure Victorian music is well represented at the negotiation table, including the Liquor Control Advisory Committee, the Sexual Harassment and Assault Taskforce, the National Women's Music Committee, the Central Geelong Live Music Steering Committee, the Arts Industry Advisory Council, the Australian Music Industry Network, and the Victorian Skills Commissioner's Industry Advisory Group.

Music Victoria also established the Victorian Artists' Advisory Panel to complement our Regional Music Industry Advisory Panel and Women's Music Industry Advisory Panel. These specialist groups will be vital in helping inform and advise the organisation and representing the music community.

Gender Diversity

See below for our Gender Diversity Report.

Professional Development

Across the state, Music Victoria was involved in more than 35 professional development sessions – from panels, masterclasses, workshops and networking events - from October 2015 to December 2016. Topics included regional touring, musician’s health (including hearing health), music exports, confidence and visibility, small business and financial skills and grant funding. It was once again a partner in Face the Music, the state’s key industry conference, and Melbourne Music Week, and it was great to see these events, plus The Age Music Victoria Awards, align over ten days in the CBD in November.

The Age Music Victoria Awards

Music Victoria changed the structure of this year’s event, making the awards ceremony an invite only event to nominees, judges, and partners, and branding the public ticketed concert to 400 fans for an event called The After Party, which focused on the best contemporary music, artists, venues and festivals of the year, and was headlined by a more current band, rather than a heritage/legacy act.

The move was a great success, with 800 industry cheering the genre and public awards (voted for by 46,000 people) winners and this year’s inductee, co-radio partner and much loved community radio station 102.7FM Three Triple R, celebrated with a heartfelt video tribute and speeches. Five dollars from every ticket sold was donated to Support Act, bringing the event’s contribution to the music industry charity to over $50,000 over its 11 years.

After the awards, the fans joined the industry as one Victorian music community to celebrate performances by some of the hottest acts in the country, including Camp Cope, Tash Sultana and Alex Lahey, before Melbourne Ska Orchestra finished with a brilliant and classy 45 minute party set which included a tribute to Music Victoria. A peak body was cool for four minutes! Music Victoria is looking at possibly expanding the event next year to invite more industry and attract a bigger audience of music lovers.

State

It made a number of submissions to the State Government’s Creative State strategy around music, tourism and international touring, and I was interviewed by the Boston Consulting Group about Victorian music’s branding and reputation overseas.

Council Elections Survey

Music Victoria once again surveyed around 2000 local government election candidates across 79 electorates to connect potential councillors with music loving communities state-wide and inform voters. 77% of respondent council candidates said they would undertake a music audit of their local music community, while 85% said they supported a music strategy in their municipality. Music Victoria will be following up with elected candidates in 2017 and offering support to help them conduct audits and strategies for their local communities and electorates.

Live Music monitoring

The Agent of Change planning provision was tested in the Victorian Civil and Administrative Tribunal recently, and VCAT found in favour of Northcote venue Open Studio, setting an important precedent in favour of venues over new residential developers in interpreting relevant planning law. It continues to monitor the practical implications of Agent of Change principle to Victorian venues, and assists when needed. I also sit on the Environmental Protection Agency Victoria's SEPP N-2 Reference Group to advise on the review of the noise standards in relation to live music and entertainment noise.

Buskers

Music Victoria made a submission to the City of Melbourne in support of buskers to be able to continue to play amplified music in Swanston Street. Busking provides a vital performance and commercial outlet for emerging and established artists and is part of Melbourne's cultural DNA. It was the university of some of Victoria's best emerging artists, including the Pierce Brothers and Tash Sultana.

National issues

As chair of the Australian Music Industry Network (AMIN), I was a member of the National Contemporary Music Roundtable, which contributed to the National Contemporary Music Plan, endorsed by 14 peak bodies and associations. I had a number of meetings with federal political advisors and shadow ministers, and I chaired the first meeting for the National Contemporary Music Plan during Melbourne Music Week. Music Victoria successfully helped lobby the Australian federal government to increase its funding of Sounds Australia, our peak music export and marketing initiative.

AMIN ran the inaugural I Love Live Music 60 Second Film Competition, as well as the Control program and the world record attempt on the steps of the State Library for the most people wearing an Australian band t-shirt.

Future priorities

In 2017, Music Victoria is not going to rest on its laurels. It will contract a publicist to assist it with its annual membership drive and communications strategy to help reach a wider audience on the benefits of membership and profiling important issues for the industry. It will celebrate and promote its successes and key initiatives to drive membership and partnerships, influence key organisations and government and increase the reputation of Victorian music as being the Live Music State.

It has been invited by the state Department of Treasury and Finance to pitch some project ideas for next year's budget, and it is conducting a brainstorming session with key industry this week to flesh out and present the best ideas.

It will begin and develop partnerships with Arts Centre Melbourne, Bastion Collective and Arts Access Victoria to help people who are disadvantaged, including people with a disability, attend more shows, and will continue to work with Multicultural Arts Victoria,

MUSIC VICTORIA

Regional Arts Victoria and Songlines Aboriginal Music and the state and federal governments to promote diversity in music.

Music Victoria will continue to work with Visit Victoria and Boston Consulting Group to let the world know what an incredibly dynamic and diverse music community we live and work in.

Victoria's reputation continues to grow around the country, and globally. Last week I was invited to speak at Electronic Music Conference in Sydney on a night time economies panel alongside the 'Night Mayor' of Amsterdam, Mirik Milan. By the time I had finished speaking, people were queuing up to learn about our 10 point plan to save and preserve music venues, and the Night Mayor was organising a delegation to visit Victoria to see how our world live music best practice supports a thriving music ecology.

Music Victoria wants Melbourne to be known as the Live Music Capital of the World in the next three years, while helping stimulate the regional touring circuit to full capacity. Your memberships, support and involvement will help us turn this dream into a reality.

I am looking forward to a huge 2017 and beyond.

Yours sincerely,

CEO, Music Victoria

TREASURERS REPORT 2015-16 FINANCIAL YEAR

Introduction

It has been an interesting year in terms of our relationship and funding with Creative Victoria, after receiving temporary funding on a six monthly basis for the financial year 2016, we are delighted to announce (after much discussion with our CEO) that we have executed contract for the next three years granting us a fixed funding amount per year, which guarantee's our position as a going concern. We have also been able to secure the management of two projects on behalf of Creative Victoria, the previously announced Good Music Neighbours and the yet to be announced Music Industry Development Program, the involvement in these programs continues our strive to be involved in the delivery of Music Works Package. During 2015 our board decided to expand the capacity of the Music Victoria through additional staffing and a more functional office space, these two initiatives has restricted our ability to deliver significant surpluses as our revenue base is relatively constant. The board's position is to balance revenue to expenses and deliver a higher level of service to our membership base.

The current year Profit & Loss is distorted by the holding of our one in ten year event The Hall Of Fame Concert which contributed to a significant increase in other revenue and expenses, as evident from our financials our grant income was also down by $53,000 from the previous year, with prudent management of expenses we again recorded a small surplus of $154.00. The current year financials have again been independently audited by the Banks Group are available for your inspection here tonight.

Balance Sheet

The equity position for the financial year ending 30th of June 2015 has been maintained again in 2016 at around $330,000 retained earnings. Our cash position remains strong with a large proportion of our funds on fixed deposit and sufficient liquid funds to meet our monthly operating expenses. Our receivables are predominately owing from Creative Victoria, it should be noted that the Other Financial Liabilities is predominately income received in advance not yet brought to account.

Surplus/Deficit

Our very modest surplus was achieved against a budget forecast of a deficit of $5000 which is a pleasing result considering the uncertainty through the year of our ongoing Government funding. As previously mentioned we are now operating with significantly higher expense base than in previous years and it is a constant of the Board to maintain vigilant control over expenses to match our revenue targets.

The Year Ahead

The Finance Sub Committee prior to the end of each financial year meets to cast the following year's budget, for this financial year in line with our now guaranteed grants income we have budgeted for another modest surplus. As part of the committee's focus we have increased expenditure in our program area's to continue to expand our services to our members as well as increase our membership numbers across all categories in line with our long term target of attracting around 2000 members state wide.

In closing I would like to thank Katrina McBeath for her continued support in managing the financial administration of Music Victoria and Chloe Turner for her assistance in Katrina's absence.

MUSIC VICTORIA BOARD NOMINATIONS 2016

Jeremy Gronow

Jeremy Gronow has more than 25 years' experience in media, PR and communications. Jeremy cut his teeth in the seedy world of rock and roll before moving on to the even seedier worlds of journalism and politics at a State and Local Government level. As a singer, songwriter and guitarist Jeremy has also been playing bands for more than three decades. Outside of music, Jeremy's background and experience offers:

- A strong understanding of how government works
- Marketing and branding experience
- Experience in fundraising and positioning not for profits in a competitive environment, and,
- A strong desire to represent Music Victoria's membership as a long term member himself.

If elected, Jeremy would focus on building Music Victoria's membership and finding new funding sources to ensure its long term financial sustainability. He also would continue the current board and management's sterling work in strengthening the viability of the sector, providing increased career opportunities for industry workers, developing partnership arrangements, positioning Melbourne as a global music city, and, supporting Victorian musicians.

Tracee Hutchison

Dear Music Victoria Members,

Please accept this supporting statement for my nomination for Music Victoria's Management Committee.

I am a highly regarded and widely networked media and arts industry professional with a thirty-year career as broadcaster, journalist, TV producer, Program Director/Radio programmer, Commissioning Editor, Arts/Media Executive, Author and Educator.

I bring a suite of skills to this role including Communications, Media Strategy, Executive Management, Stakeholder Engagement, Project Management, NFP Fundraising & Governance expertise, Cross-Cultural & Social Justice Advocacy, Curriculum Development and Mentoring, in addition to extensive networks and experience within the Australian music industry over several decades.

My wide-ranging national and international media career includes high profile on-air roles at 3RRR, Triple J, (where I launched the national network), ABC Radio (national, metro & regional) and Radio Australia, on television as co-host of 'DIG TV' (with James Reyne), '7:30 Report' reporter/producer and ABC TV Arts programs, and as Talent Producer of 'nomad', the program that discovered 'silverchair' in a national demo competition.

I am a former CEO of the Human Rights Arts & Film Festival and was part of the Board and Executive Management (as Program Director) at 3RRR during the studio relocation, fundraising and purchase of the current purpose-built studios in East Brunswick.

I am currently Head of Journalism at the Australian College of Arts and serve on a number of Advisory Committees/Panels consulting to community radio, Arts-based organisations and local government.

I split my time between the city and the Mornington Peninsula, where I present a weekly community radio program, and am particularly passionate about support for regional musicians/arts through localised initiatives and engagement, access & diversity for CALD performers and gender equity.

Cat McGauran

Cat's diverse range of skills and involvement in the music industry in Victoria makes her a strong candidate for the board. Cat co-host's the Breakfast Spread on PBS FM which requires her to keep up to date with what's happening in the industry and around Melbourne and she plays in a band. Her knowledge and involvement with music in regional areas is significant because she has good connections around the state and a solid understanding of the issues faced in these areas. When living in Gippsland she volunteered with the Lyrebird Arts Council in Meeniyan, and has been the MC of the Beechworth Music Festival since its inception last year. Cat also helped Music Victoria apply for funding to get the Geelong Regional Music Strategy up.

Professionally Cat has a background in law and journalism meaning that she is used to making decisions based on evidence before her, i.e. as impartially as possible. Aside from PBS she works at The Council to Homeless Persons, the peak body for the housing/homelessness sector in Victoria which is useful because she has an excellent understanding of how peak bodies work and what their role is within an industry.
